

Archiving angst

Research from AXS-One claims nearly half (47%) of IT directors remain dissatisfied with their digital archiving capabilities and are pessimistic about improving the situation. Based on interviews with 100 UK IT directors, the findings indicate that many UK organisations are missing opportunities to reduce the costs and risks associated with retaining and managing electronic records.